

Opening of the tribute to

Beverley's Historic Shipyard

Friday 15th October 12:00 noon

Grovehill Road. River Hull Bridge, Beverley

Beverley's former shipbuilding industry employed over 650 people, built 1300 ships, and contributed to Britain's WW2 effort. Many people are not now aware of this history but Beverley's shipbuilding industry deserves to be remembered.

A memorial archway display board will be 'unveiled' to inform people of this wealth of history. The rusting arch evokes the factory gates and the information board has numerous photographs with explanatory text.

The project was inspired by Howard Tomlinson MBE who sadly died before its completion but passed it on to the sculptor Peter Naylor. It has all been done by local companies and stands on land given by John Marin, the last shipbuilder in Beverley.

Come to see this installation preserving Beverley's heritage!